

SIGN UP FOR YOUR FREE DAILY EMAIL!

FRIDAY JAN 02

CULTURE

Lights Out

Recycle Your Christmas Lights

You're on your own with the leftover eggnog and fruitcake. But how about a bright idea for dealing with those Christmas lights? This year, recycle them with Christmas Light Source. The Fort Worth-based lighting supplier will recycle the copper, glass, and plastic in any light you send their way. Just as you can get cash for bringing cans to the supermarket, Christmas Light Source will get a small amount for each strand recycled. All that money will then be used to buy children's books for Marine Toys for Tots. That way, your Christmas lights can continue to bring joy long after they are done decking your halls.

As an extra incentive, recyclers get 10 percent off their next purchase. For more information, go to christmas-light-source.com.

Rate ●●●●● | Email | Print | Add Comment (0) |

BLOG ROLL

OZO BRANDS

BEST OF DAILY LIFE

F | Culture 06/19/09

A New High

The opening of any park is a happy event. Imagine the hoopla around a park that is 30 feet up in...

TH | Food 06/18/09

Good Ol' Joe

People covet it. People need it. People would go across town to get it. We're talking about...

W | Travel 06/17/09

Ships Ahoy

Tugboat tub expeditions, "deep-sea" pool dives - we all wanted to be marine...

PEOPLE

Una Kim

Una Kim originally started Keep Company to provide ladies with